Evidence of Hamas Crimes Submitted to the Commission of Inquiry

The mandate of the Commission of Inquiry on the “2018 protests in the Occupied Palestinian Territory” (COI), enshrined in Resolution S-28/1, is prejudicial and one-sided. It focuses on Israel’s alleged “military assaults” on “civilian protests.” Nevertheless, the COI cannot ignore Hamas’s alleged violations.

The Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights recently reminded members of fact-finding missions that the “professional obligations of all United Nations personnel require independence, impartiality and objectivity. This means in principle that the investigation should cast a wide net and give no consideration to who gets caught in it.”1

In this regard, we note that in his oral update to the 39th session of the Human Rights Council, COI chairman Santiago Canton said “We wish to stress again that the Commission is approaching its mandate without any preconceived ideas and will base its findings on a solid, objective assessment of the information verified. We will go where the evidence leads us.”

We hope this statement was sincere and that, unlike previous commissions of inquiry on Israel, this COI will address Hamas’s many violations of international law, including the following evidence that we submitted to the COI:
